

How much legal weight does my e-signature need?

The law distinguishes between the qualified electronic signature (QES), the advanced electronic signature (AES) and the simple electronic signature (SES). The three standards vary in terms of area of application and legal weight.

Legal weight	Basic	High	Maximum
Area of application	Documents without legal form requirement and with low liability risk Examples* : <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Supplier offer • Order • Internal document • Announcement 	Documents without legal form requirement and with calculable liability risk Examples* : <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Rental agreement • Contract of sale • Simple employment contract • Account opening 	Documents with legal form requirements or high liability risk Examples* : <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Consumer credit contract • Temporary employment contract • Management employment contracts • Audit report • Entry with authorities
Trust and security	Low level of identity security and simple signature triggering (LOA 1 to 2) Examples: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Identification by verification of the e-mail address • 1-click signature triggering 	Identity verified using official identity document, triggering of signature with one factor authentication (LOA 3) Examples: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Identity check when signing a contract with a mobile phone number • Expression of intent with mTAN 	Identity verified by authorised entities, triggering of signature by means of two factor authentication (LOA 4) Examples: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Identification by a trained person (in-person or video call) • Expression of intent with password and mTAN
Legal certainty and regulatory basis	Low requirement level Integrity of the signed document ensured by advanced organisation certificate according to Adobe Approved Trust List (AATL) AATL compliant	High requirement level Personal electronic signature AATL compliant	Maximum requirement level Equal to a handwritten signature according to Swiss (ZertES) and EU law (eIDAS) AATL compliant

* The choice of the e-signature standard depends on applicable formal requirements and internal policies and may differ from the listed examples. Consult a legal advisor for your specific case.