Pain points described by UNIQA Re

- Signing paper contracts internationally is slow and expensive: Our office in Zurich reinsures UNIQA business units across Austria and Eastern European countries from Ukraine down to Albania. We have found it increasingly ineffective to send paper-based contracts back and forth – both money and time-wise.
- Highly mobile employees and home office: Our highly mobile employees – who currently all work from home – have made signing on paper even more challenging.
- Availability of authorised signatories: The most important documents require the signature of the CEO, and with her frequently out of the office or in meetings, the need for a digital signing process has become even more accentuated.

Solution:

- Electronic signature with Skribble: We are very pleased that Skribble has helped us speed up our signing process across Austria and all of Central & Eastern Europe. Instead of sending paper contracts to our business units by mail, all contracts can now be signed electronically and quickly and conveniently by UNIQA Re representatives.
- Speed up paperwork turnaround time: At the moment, we use the Skribble e-signing platform in the browser version as the set up had to be instantaneous. In the future, we may consider an integration via API.
- Expand Skribble within company: We will spread the word within the company so that other departments can benefit from Skribble’s time and money saving potential.
